Road Trip – Track by Track Descriptions

Road Trip – A folky, surf-rock ode to the family road trip complete with references to the odd roadside attractions that beckon from the next off-ramp. Did you know the largest ball of twine is 40 feet around! Who among us hasn't been at least a little tempted to pull over and see what The Thing really is?

Rolling Down that Road – There are few things better than embarking on an adventure with the ones you love. This re-make of an old folk classic takes us where the climate suits our clothes and where the ocean meets the sand.

Flying By – Sometimes technology fails and the best entertainment is right outside your window. This Elvis-inspired tune documents a few of the scenes just waiting to be seen from your car window.

10-4 Goodbuddy – Trucks, trucks and more trucks! Johnny Cash would've dug this song about what's inside those big rigs rolling down the highway.

Driving With Me – A how-to guide for driving a car! Listen a few times and head off to the DMV. Featuring Steve's nieces Kaitlyn and Emily Krueger on backing vocals.

Car Seat Dance – It's hard to dance when you're strapped into a car seat! This song guides you through a few reasonable car-seat dance moves. The "Shoulder-to-Your-Ear" is bound to catch on soon in nightclubs nation-wide.

Flying Towards the Light – A song about bugs being squished on the windshield? That's gross! Yes, but it happens and we thought our little winged friends deserved a tribute.

Traffic Jam – Every road trip gets bogged down in traffic at least once. Even when dad explains why we had to stop, it seems like everyone should just go, go, go!

Are We There Yet? – Are we there yet, Mom? You knew we were going to ask. . .again, and again and again. This song features guest vocalist and all-around super-mom, Beth Crocker

I'm Hungry – If it came down to it, kids could live for days on the stray bits snacks floating around the back seat. Who needs to stop for lunch when there are goldfish in my seat!

Siren Song – Alas, this song has nothing to do with Greek Mythology. It's all about the police cars, fire trucks and ambulances that call out for our attention when we're on the road.

Sleepy – Like little riders on a long trip this lullaby that starts out rockin' and gradually drifts off to sleep

Good to Be Back Home – As good as a family adventure can be, there's nothing quite like the feeling of sleeping in your own bed. It was a good, good trip but it's good to be back home. . .
